What does the BPCA Member logo mean?

To be a BPCA Member, a pest management company must:

Undergo regular audits against the British Standard EN16636 for pest management

Abide by our strict industry Codes of Best Practice

Provide detailed advice on pest prevention measures

Perform a survey before starting work or providing a final quote

Have at least £2million public and products liability insurance

Protect staff, customers and members of the public through risk and COSHH assessments

Only employ technicians who meet or exceed the industry-standard qualifications.

Always look for the logo.

What does being BS EN16636 audited mean?

Having passed a BS EN16636 audit means a pest control company:

Is part of the first common standard for pest management operators

Has been measured against a European benchmark for pest management

Is independently verified by a third party certification body

Is working to an internationally recognised, professional standard

Is regularly assessed to the standard on an 18-month cycle.

British Pest Control Association is the premier trade association for professional pest management companies in the UK.

By choosing an audited BPCA member you can be assured that the services you receive are from a trained and trusted company that meets our strict membership criteria.

Our member companies meet or exceed all pest management legal and 'due diligence' requirements and comply with the most current legislation.

No other trade body gives you this security.
